

BPM Named One of the Best Places to Work in the Bay Area

04.24.20

SAN FRANCISCO, CA, April 24, 2020 – BPM, one of the 50 largest public accounting and advisory firms in the country, has been recognized as one of the “Best Places to Work in the Bay Area,” thanks to nominations from employees who appreciate the Firm’s values, culture and benefits.

The awards program presented by the San Francisco Business Times and the Silicon Valley Business Journal will take place later this year, where they will reveal the rankings of the approximately 130 organizations who ranked out of the nearly 500 companies who competed.

BPM ranked #28 in the Large Company category, which includes organizations that employ between 250-999 employees.

Over the last several years, BPM made big investments in leadership and partner track programs, as well as lifestyle benefits including wellness incentives and parenting resources.

“Although BPM is growing leaps and bounds geographically and internally, our values and dedication to our employees remains as strong as ever,” said Beth Baldwin, BPM’s Chief People Officer. “We continue to invest in programs that support our people within the workplaces and in their lives outside the office.”

This year marks the ninth time BPM has won the award since 2009, and it was the only CPA firm included in the Top 10 Large Company category in 2015 and 2016. BPM has also been considered one of the “Best Places to Work in the North Bay” since 2005.

“Our strategic vision and plan will always put our people first,” said Jim Wallace, BPM CEO. “We value our clients and colleagues, and we’re honored they continue to find value in BPM year after year.”

Recently ranked by Forbes as one of America’s Best Tax and Accounting Firms, BPM continually strengthens its client service team with talented professionals who bring deep expertise across a wide variety of industries. Head over to the BPM website to look at current job openings.
